

SURREY CHRISTIAN SCHOOL

EDUCATING FOR WHOLENESS

To the long Shoreman at the Port of Los Angeles,
Hello, my name is Troy. In grade 6 this term we are learning about grateful living and noticing things around us that we can't do for ourselves. So my whole class and I are writing to people like you who help people like me get my grapes all the way from Chile to Canada. Our project is called Project Gratitude, where we send letters to a bunch of people that help grow grapes. you are high above the ground every day. Also you are high above lifting crates in the sky and sun in a crane. I am grateful for you because you get the grapes off the ship and onto the tracks. I am grateful for you because you are high in the sky all day unloading grapes off the ship. without you I wouldn't be able to eat grapes. I cannot lift grapes in a crane because I don't have a license. you are a vital part in how I get my grapes.

As a class, we were able to research to the best of our ability with the help of different sources, how the grapes that are grown in Chile get all the way to Langley, BC, Canada where we live. The grapes travel just over 14,000 km's over land and see to get to us.

We were able to thank 66 different people who were involved with farming, harvesting, distributing, and selling of the grapes we eat.

We are grateful for the role you each play in how our grapes get to us.
